"We are delighted to be recognized by the IACC," said Kris Canekeratne, Virtusa Chairman and CEO. "This prestigious award highlights our company's success as a next-generation IT services firm that delivers the benefits of speed, efficiency and agility to our clients using a global delivery model. The tremendous dedication of our team members made this award possible."

T.N. Hari, Virtusa SVP and Global Head of Human Resources, who represented the company at the June 28th awards ceremony, said " We are delighted to win this latest in a long series of Virtusa awards over the past year. This is a prestigious recognition for our business and re-iterates our leadership status among the global IT services companies"

The Indo-American Corporate Excellence (I-ACE) Awards 2008 recognize the best U.S. companies in India in four categories, including Overall Best Company, and Best U.S. Company in Financial Services, in Manufacturing and Other Services, and in Technology, Communications and Entertainment. Nominees for I-ACE Awards are reviewed by a distinguished jury and judged on factors such as financial performance, Indo-U.S. trade, corporate social responsibility initiatives and human capital management.

Virtusa has enjoyed a nine-year history in India, with global delivery centers in Hyderabad and Chennai. The company is in the process of building a new, 6,000 person capacity campus in Hyderabad.
